

Better engagement. Healthier employees.

Discover the difference experience makes with a TotalWellness biometric screening.

Not all biometric screenings are created equal.

At TotalWellness, we specialize in delivering customized screening events that are fun and engaging and will spark conversation around the watercooler. Plus, we offer a variety of ways to perform the screenings to help ensure maximum participation.

Our secret? An approach that is unlike anything else in the industry.

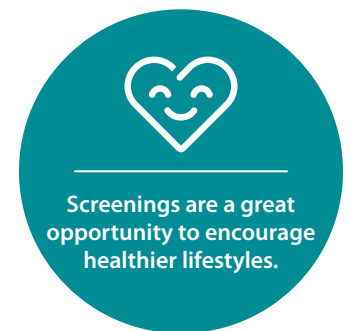

It starts with our core belief that everyone – yes, everyone – is healthy. We focus on the good things people do and help them find ways to add more of it into their daily lives. This positive approach connects with people and motivates them to think differently about their health.

We're equipped to handle any size job.

Whether you're the wellness coordinator of a small family-run business or the VP of benefits for a Fortune 500 company, we have the infrastructure and nurse-power to design a screening event to meet your specific needs. Plus, our expansive network of providers enables us to offer health-screening vouchers to remote employees – access will never be a problem.

Don't settle for more of the same.

Biometric screenings are the most interactive component in a yearly wellness program. We can help you make the most of that opportunity by inspiring people to take that important first step toward even healthier living. And healthier living leads to happier employees.
