

Rewards for Wellness™

Programs designed for results. Incentives designed to motivate.

We deliver results

gBehavior structures wellness programs for measurable success, and creates incentives to focus employees on your business goals. Our clients in a variety of industries are benefiting from increased engagement in wellness activities, reduced catastrophic claims, and improved employee health. Actual client successes include outcomes like an increase of over 400% in health assessment participation and over 100% completion of preventive and age-based exams.

Our wellness programs provide:

- Customized program with online rewards mall - designed and branded to meet your business objectives.
- gTrack - tracking and reporting platform that generates participant points statements, as well as comprehensive standard and customized management reports for measuring results.
- All program administration - implementation and management of the program, incentive fulfillment, program engagement and customer support.

We measure success

When employees achieve program metrics, they are rewarded with points that are redeemable for their choice of exciting products and services. Our experience proves that incentives promote long term employee commitment to wellness objectives. And, because we know that incentives bring results, we offer this guarantee—we are paid ONLY when employees meet your program goals.
