All together better

At Sharecare, our mission is to collectively empower the health and well-being of every human.

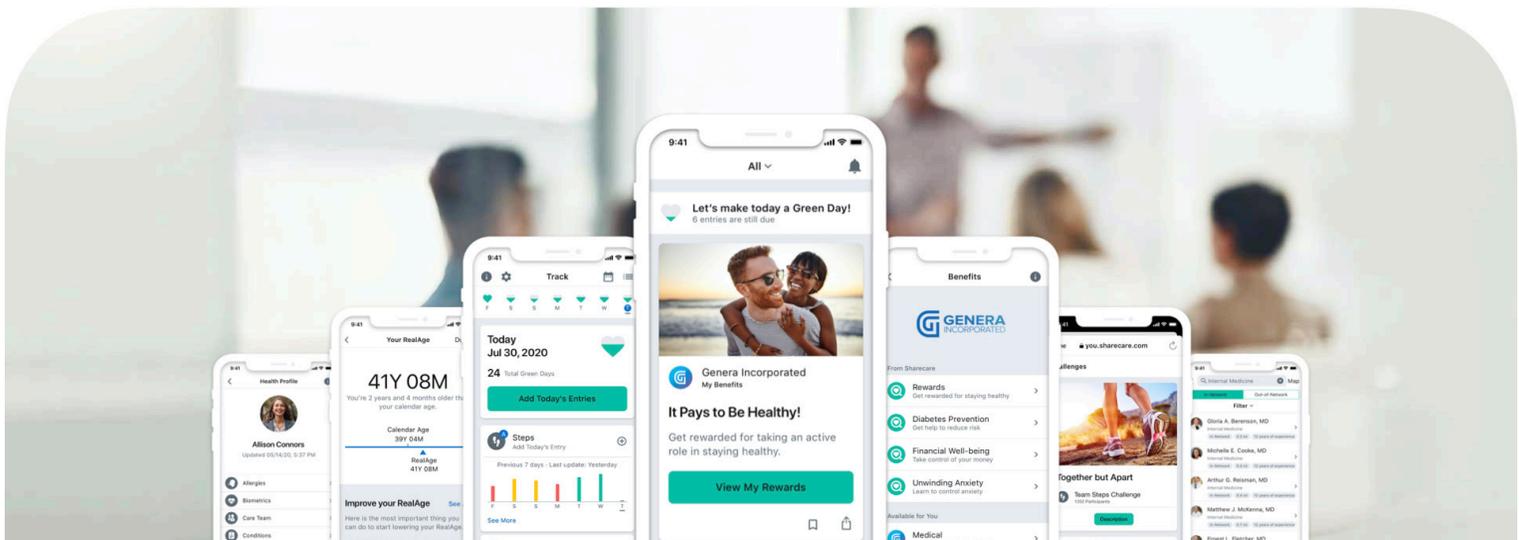

Sharecare is a health & well-being hub that unifies all the elements of individual and collective health to work together so everyone can live better, longer - regardless of whether they are an employee, health plan member, patient or community member.

Designed to help people, workforces and communities optimize their well-being, our interoperable platform integrates fragmented point solutions to foster a frictionless user-friendly experience that engages people in all aspects of their health. From medication adherence and managing a chronic condition such as diabetes or heart disease to developing better eating habits, improving sleep and reducing stress, Sharecare dynamically supports each individual through the lens of their personal health journey and connects them to the right stakeholders at the right time.

We believe everyone's health & well-being is inherently interconnected – a person's physical health is connected to their mental and emotional health. But, also an individual's health is connected to a greater collective – their friends, colleagues, employers, doctors, insurers, and local community. Yet, the category remains incredibly disconnected with hundreds of fragmented point solutions.

At Sharecare, we see our role as the great unifier. We unify the elements of an individual's health – physical, mental, emotional, etc. – with the greater collective – users, employers, doctors, insurers, governments, etc. – to create one health & well-being hub where every piece works together so everyone can live better, longer.

We sum it up as 'All Together Better' – all the pieces of an individual's health, unified with the greater health collective, in one connected system that's working together, for better, for all.
