

Connecting People, Processes and Technology for a Better Benefits
Administration Experience

We've been supporting businesses with benefits administration software and employee data management for over twenty years. We work with staffing agencies, retail stores, healthcare, energy, hospitality, and public sector companies, to name a few. Businesses like yours.

Our clients become part of our team, our family. They know we will do what it takes to deliver high quality service and resolve any challenge.

Working with BenefitElect's team is an absolute joy. I find everyone to be extremely knowledgeable regarding all of details of any situation regarding this platform. Their depth of experience helps us resolve any issue quickly. Our client team is quick to respond and amazing to work with. We always feel like we are their number one priority. There is nothing more we could ask for!

How BenefitElect Partners with You

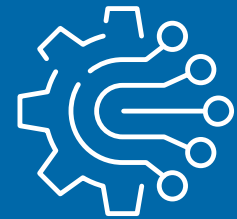

Technology

Finding a benefits administration system that addresses the complexities of your business can feel overwhelming. We have the tools to connect people, processes and technology. You deserve to feel confident that your employees and business are in the right hands. At BenefitElect, we don't cut corners. We do it right the first time.

Data Management

Businesses cannot afford costly data errors. With our state-of-the-art data management services, your employees' information is secure. Our platform was designed to collect all necessary information prior to data transmission and be cleansed by our team, ensuring that everything sent from your database is complete and accurate. Every time.

Communication

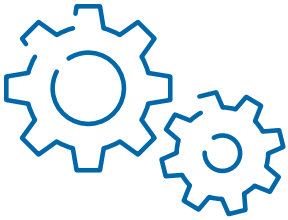

When employees know the ins and outs of their benefit options, they are more engaged in choosing coverage that best fits their needs. Understanding the value of their benefits helps employees become smart healthcare consumers. Our goal is to engage every learner through a mix of robust digital and print communications.

Dedicated Service

As a company, our priority has always been to deliver the best service to our clients. We take the busy work off your desk and give you back valuable time. Our integrity and commitment to excellence are the driving forces in every aspect of our business.

Technology

Overseeing the complex world of benefits administration weighs heavily on busy HR professionals today. With ever-changing insurance regulations, employee turnover, legal requirements and more, your day-to-day responsibilities are continuously expanding. At BenefitElect, we do the heavy lifting of benefits administration for you.

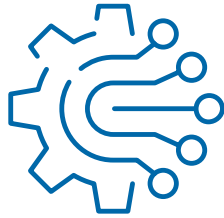

As a company that understands benefits, we bring decades of professional experience and knowledge to help you with benefits administration and HR responsibilities. From compliance and analytics to enrollment and managing life events, we handle it all.

We selected BenefitElect because we were looking for a benefits software that provided ease and clarity in electing benefits for our customers as well as providing robust tools on the administrator side which would allow us to remain flexible. BenefitElect knocked it out of the park for both those items. We are thrilled to have BenefitElect, not just as a vendor, but as a partner. A bonus on top of all that is the customer support. Though they support various organizations and cultures, we feel they truly understand what we are trying to accomplish and proactively work with us to meet our goals.

Data Management

Data errors can not only be financially costly, but they can also eat up your time. Both resources could be better spent on other initiatives. We designed our data management platform to make data errors a thing of the past. Our dynamic classification system allows us to process a large volume of complex data, quickly and with precision.

Our system collects all necessary information prior to data transmission, ensuring everything you receive is complete and accurate. BenefitElect transfers relevant enrollment data to your payroll and HR systems and insurance carriers swiftly and securely. Full in-house EDI or API integration helps us provide the best user experience for you.

BenefitElect came at the right time. I was manually sending enrollment forms to each insurance vendor. But thanks to BenefitElect, employees go online to make their benefits elections – it's that simple. I can honestly say that what BenefitElect promised, they delivered. I can verify employees' elections and premiums in one place.

Engaging Communications

When it comes to helping employees understand their benefits package, effective communication is key. We make HR communications easier through engaging messaging and creative distribution to reach every employee.

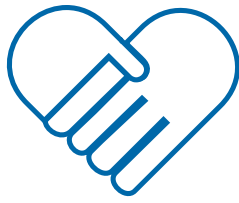

Whether you prefer videos, benefit guides, postcards, or newsletters, you can expect strategic consultation from the start of your project through completion. Branded communication brings home the message of your valuable benefits program and increases employee appreciation and job satisfaction. Using automated text messages and emails continually reminds employees of key deadlines and action steps.

We've been a happy BenefitElect client for four years. The platform is extremely flexible; it handles our most complex rules and can integrate with all our insurance carriers and third-party administrators. Their support team is just as impressive; everyone at the company is collaborative, attentive and incredibly responsive. I know we are not their only client, but they treat us like we are.

Dedicated Service

With BenefitElect, you're not a number to us. We believe in building solid, long-lasting partnerships with our clients. We get to know you and understand your business so that we can put effective strategies in place to meet your goals.

When you email or call BenefitElect with a question, you'll know the person answering it. You can expect an exceptional experience from initial implementation to full integration.

We have worked with BenefitElect for a few years and we are decidedly content with the "partnership." We have been able to collaborate as a team to address the needs of our unique Health Trust and make ongoing updates and changes as needed. I appreciate having a dedicated support team that is attentive and easily reachable to address my questions and business challenges.
